

Prairie Blossom students have been busy building and creating with their hands—and having a blast doing it! They let their imaginations shine during a fun novel study project, where they turned each chapter into colorful comic strips. These young artists are full of creativity and love trying out all kinds of cool ways to make art.

1. Hands-on activities and projects

Students built a sundial to show what they learnt about weather and seasons.

Building a bird feeder

Building a fur trade post

2. Novel study project

Students read The Chocolate Touch and transformed it into a graphic novel.

3. Art projects
